Foreword

We, the staff of White Columns, present to you the 1964 volume as a pictorial record of the year at Augusta College. We hope that you find it a pleasant book.

In future years, when you turn its pages, renewing in memory the friendships formed here and reliving the experiences pictured within its pages, it is our hope that you will find it an even more pleasant book.

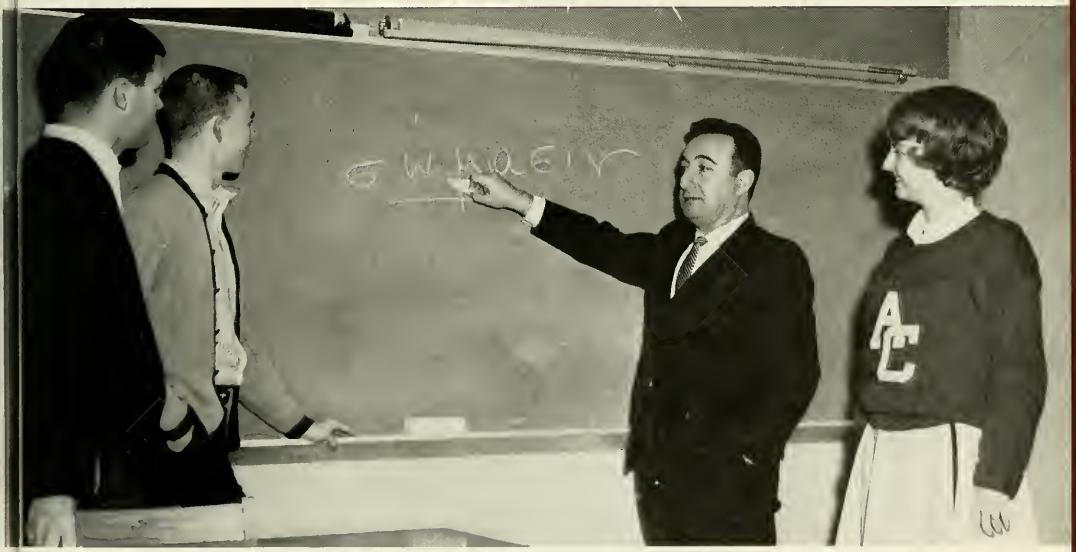
Department of History and Political Science

Dedication

To Mr. Spyros J. Dalis, we, the students of Augusta College, dedicate this, the seventh volume of WHITE COLUMNS. Ever enriching the lives of his students by imparting knowledge in the classroom, by giving generously of his time to extra-curricular activities, and by promoting school spirit, Mr. Dalis has earned the position of high esteem and sincere affection that we hold for him.

Along with Mr. Martin, Mr. Dalis enjoys looking on at activities during a pep rally.



To Ken Parrish, Bill Hiers and Sally Ashmore, Mr. Dalis explains one of the letters used in a Greek word.

History

The first step towards higher education in Augusta was taken in 1910 with the addition of one year of college work to the regular high school curriculum at the Academy of Richmond County.

An additional step was taken with the establishment of the Junior College of Augusta in 1925. The college shared the facilities of the Academy until the fall of 1957, when it moved to the site of the old Augusta Arsenal. In 1958, it was incorporated as a unit in the University System of Georgia.

In 1963, one of the final and most important steps was taken when the Board of Regents authorized the expansion of Augusta College into a four year institution with the first baccalaureate degrees to be awarded in 1967.

In Appreciation

DEAN N. L. GALLOWAY

PROFESSOR C. M. SUTTON

Those remembered longest and whose memories are most highly revered are those whose hearts are gentle, whose sympathies are broad, and who best serve humanity.—Adapted

Dean Galloway and Professor Sutton are retiring from Augusta College at the end of the present school year. Coming here shortly after the inception of the college in 1925, both men have made many contributions to its growth from a small, struggling institution to its present status.

In the summer of 1929, Dean Galloway came to the college to instruct a group composed mostly of Richmond County teachers in courses in Education. So impressed were the school authorities with his work, that they invited him to become a permanent member of the faculty a year later. Over the years it has been Augusta's good fortune that he accepted this invitation.

Professor Sutton first came to Augusta as a member of the college faculty in the fall of 1926, and soon established himself as an outstanding instructor and leader in numerous civic projects.

During their long tenure at Augusta College, Dean Galloway and Professor Sutton have touched the lives of thousands of Augustans, enriching and ennobling them through their influence.

To these two distinguished educators and gentlemen, we extend our best wishes for a future filled with pleasant memories, the continuation of old activities, the pursuit of new ones, and the satisfaction that comes from a job well-done. We at Augusta College shall long be aware of and feel the influence which they are leaving with us.

Dean Galloway receives from Mr. John Bell the first Augusta College Alumni Scholarship. Carl Usry was recipient of this scholarship.

Norman L. Galloway: A loyal and sympathetic friend, wise counselor, and dedicated teacher, manifesting wisdom and understanding in all his relationships in both school and community.

A scholarly Christian gentleman and teacher . . . his retiring soon from Augusta College as Head of the English Department causes us to reflect that his literary thoroughness has given him the mark of authority. It is well spoken when said, "Everybody likes and will miss Mr. Sutton."

MARVIN VANOVER

"A master of the famed shuffle offense." "A brilliant court strategist." "A leader among leaders dedicated to his task of molding character and building men." These are a few of the descriptive phrases used to portray the many faces of the man who now heads the Augusta College athletic department and physical education program.

"More sports, more teams, and more participants" is the theme of Coach Vanover and Augusta College as the institution enters its infant phase as a major college.

Spirit!
Enthusiasm!
Beauty!

These are trademarks of the 1963-64 Augusta College cheerleaders. The driving force which keyed on "the new era" of the Jaguars.

The blue-and-white clad jumping jacks symbolized the newborn fightin' spirit of the Cats.

1964 LOOMS AS BANNER YEAR FOR JAGUAR LINKSMEN

The grass along the fairways and on the greens never looked greener than they do for the Jaguars this spring. Coach Vanover inherited three-fourths of a club that sailed through the 1963 season with an undefeated slate.

Steve Steinberg, Chip Atkins, and Denny Kearns, all of whom played a big role last season, return for another spring. With several other aspiring youngsters vying for the other position it should be "Everything's Coming Up Birdies" on the greens for the Jags.
